Sensational Suits and Arrests.

Sensational suits and sensational warrants of arrest has been the order of the day for the past few days. On Friday, J. H. Haggard, a member of the Board of Education, through his attorneys, McMillan & Talbott, for himself and other taxpayers, filed suit against Mayor James M. O'Brien, T. F. Brannon, D. C. Parrish and W. H. Webb. The petition is lengthy and sensational, making serious charges against these gentlemen. He asks the court to make them refund certain amounts drawn by them as salaries for Mayor and Councilmen.

On Saturday, Mayor O'Brien had issued, Commonwealth warrants against J. H. Haggard and Bruce Miller, editor of the Kentuckian-Citizen, charging them with criminal libel. The warrants were promptly served, both gentlemen giving bond of $500 each for their appearance at their examining trial on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, before Judge Denis Dundon.

Willson's Soldier Boys Cause Excitement Here.

Considerable excitement was caused here Saturday night by eight of the Governor's soldiers, who have been parolling this and adjoining counties. About 9 o'clock Judge Denis Dundon was telephoned that a number of night riders were galloping towards Paris coming from the direction of Carlisle. The Judge immediately notified Sheriff E. P. Clarke, who with his deputy, W. T. Talbott, and several members of the police force went to the big bridge which spans Stoner at the foot of Main and awaited the coming of the supposed night riders. Instead of night riders, eight of Governor Willson's soldiers, in full uniform galloped into view. Sheriff Clarke halted them and asked what was their mission. He was answered, "Search me, ask the other fellow." This was the extent of the information the Sheriff of our county could get out of these soldier boys. They put up their horses at Flanagan's stable and visited a number of saloons, not to get any thing to drink however, but walked in them, scrutinizing the faces of those happening to be there, and walked right out. After given about time enough for their horses to be fed they mounted and left town to join twenty-four others who were in waiting near town.

We might as well have night riders, as to have soldiers galloping through our county scaring people nearly to death. Judge Dundon said yesterday that if they visited Paris again he would order the Sheriff to arrest the whole lot of them, and he would see that they talked before being released from custody.

—After weeks of intense suffering from the effects of a dislocated hip, received as the result of an accident in Newport last fall, where she had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Pattie Pearce, Mrs. Clementine Marsh Judy, widow of the late Martin Judy, of North Middletown, died at an early hour Friday morning.

Mrs. Judy was a native of Montgomery county, and at the time of her death was in the 86th year of her age. She had resided in North Middletown for nearly forty years and reared a large family of children, her husband dying in 1876. In early womanhood she united with the Christian church, and her noble Christian character, kindly disposition and lovable nature endeared her to a large circle of friends.

She is survived by 9 children—Jailer George W. Judy, of Paris; Ben F. and T. J. Judy, of North Middletown; Z. Interment in the cemetery at Clintonville. The deceased was an uncle of Mrs. Fannibelle Sutherland, of this city, being a brother of her mother.

A telegram from Columbus, O., Saturday night to Mrs. Mollie Cameron announced the death of her son, Claude W. Cameron. Mr. Cameron was a soldier in the service of the United States army and was stricken with spinal meningitis. The message was from Colonel Murray, commanding the department, and announced that owing to the nature of the disease the body was at once interred in the cemetery at Columbus barracks.
